Lab exercise

Go to the start folder and open the file index.html and add the following content.

Create a page – like the presentation of your teacher on the next page – and present yourself. Your presentation must include a two paragraph introduction, your three favorite songs and contact information. Take a photo of you with your smartphone. Transfer it to you computer (by email) and, if necessary, resize it to a height of 250 pixels (and accept the width the application suggests) using one of the tools mentioned below. The page must have an appropriate title (<title></title>).

Hints: headers, lists, address element, HTML entities, paragraphs, IMG element.

About Morten Bonderup

Introduction

I teach at Erhvervsakademi Aarhus. I currently have my primary work assignments in the Multimedia Designer education and teaching in front-end technologies such as HTML, CSS and Javascript. Previously, I taught at our top-up programme in Digital Concept Development.

What interests me is how technology can improve human living conditions, both in working life and in private life. In short: How can technology help make the world a better place to live? Identifying problems and testing technologies on reality and then communicating theories, methods and results is my passion.
