Lab exercise

This exercise is about linking between pages, HTML table and HTML form. As a preparation to this exercise copy your solution from the previous exercise to this lab's start folder. Follow these steps to do this:

1. Open the previous labs Start folder and right-click on the index.html file and select mark on the drop down menu

2. Click (left mouse button) on the Start folder for this lab. Now right-click on this Start folder and select Copy to Here on the drop down menu. The file is copied.

3. Right-click on any folder and select Refresh file tree to update files and folders.

The result must look like this for this lab's Start folder:

4. If you want to copy the photo of you from the previous lab, repeat step 1 to 3 on the image file.

Take a look at the example on the next page.

1. Now, make two links on your index page – one that links to the page "contact.html" and the other to "highlights.html".

2. Make a table of your personal highlights in the highlights.html and an email form in the contact.html as shown on the next page.

3. On these pages, there must be links that links back to the index.html. They must be labeled "Home".

4. Remember to give the pages appropriate titles (<title></title>).

About Morten Bonderup

Introduction

I teach at Erhvervsakademi Aarhus. I currently have my primary work assignments in the Multimedia Designer education and teaching in front-end technologies such as HTML, CSS and Javascript. Previously, I taught at our top-up programme in Digital Concept Development.

What interests me is how technology can improve human living conditions, both in working life and in private life. In short: How can technology help make the world a better place to live? Identifying problems and testing technologies on reality and then communicating theories, methods and results is my passion.
